THE TRIBUNE.

THE IRISH HARP has long been celebrated for the wildness and beauty of its music. The best players on this instrument have been blind, so that blindness has become almost a sine qua non in a skilful Harper. There is between poetry and music a fond alliance, and hence the ene always comes to the other's aid. The following beautiful lines on this subject are from the New-Haven Herald for which they were written by J. G. PERCIVAL, Esq. on occasion of Mr. Wall, the blind Harper's Concert there.

THE Harper once in Tara's halls. Rung loud the martial strain; Nor were those full and stirring notes Struck by his hand in vain. They roused the sens of Erin, far To drive the invading foe: They fired the heart that nerved the hand, To deal the avenging blow. In vest of green, the Harper sat

Beside the royal throne; The golden chain, that slung his barp, In pride around him thrown. Wide through the halls his music rang. And warriors leaped to hear; Drew the bright sword, and shook it high, And tossed the beamy spear.

But Tara's halls are seen no more; In ruin low they lie: The green turf o'er them weaves its sod; The weeds there mantle high-And Erin's sons no longer leap To hear their harp's wild tone:

The light, that o'er their country shed Its beam from heaven, has flown. And sadly now the Harper wends To other realms his way: He seeks a freer, happier land, Where Britons bear no sway. Then welcome here, with generous cheer,

The minstrel, wandering lone; And let us ever hold him dear, And prize him as our own.

VISIT TO FATHER MATHEW. We copy the following interesting letter from Rev. J. P. DURBIN, a distinguished Preacher of the Methodist Church, new traveling in Europe. from the last number of the Christian Advocate and Journal:

But among all the attractions at Cork, the Rev. Theobald Mathew, the Apostle of Temperance in Ireland, was to me the most attractive; and I had the good fortune to find him at his own house, just returned from Limerick. In reply to my letter which I sent him he despatched a messenger to our hotel, saying he would be pleased to see me at any hour. I waited on him at half-past six o'clock. Upon entering the narrow hall of his plain, but commodious house, I found the room on the ground floor full of very plain people, all standing around the Secretary, who was making a most vehement speech to them on the benefits of Temperance. He was showing how it increased the vigor and power of enduring fatigue, and illustrated it by a boat-race which had just taken place between three crews :- one, whisky-drinkers; one. ale or beer-drinkers; and one, cold water-drinkers As he advanced in his animated declamation, he aised his huge first aloft, saying the tee-totaler. came out first, the ale-drinkers next, and the nasty, dirty rum and whisky-drinkers last, which declaration he confirmed by bringing down his lion's paw with tremendous weight upon the huge record-book containing the four millions of name of those who have taken the Pledge from Father Mathew. It really was a novel and interesting

I soon learned that the Secretary was entertaining the crowd until Father Mathew could come down from his tea and administer the Pledge to them. In a few minutes he came down, and having spoken to us with much kindness and affection, he turned to the motley group, and asked if they wished to take the Pledge. They came forward en masse, and kneeled down before him. He said-"It is all for your good; many now are decent, well clad and comfortable, who, before they took the Pledge, were naked, hungry and wretched: say after me-'I promise, by Di vine assistance, to abstain from all intexicating liquors, and, by my example and advice, to en deavor to prevail on others to do the same." He then added-" May God give you grace to keep your promise; may God grant you all tem peral and spiritual blessings." Then putting his hand on the head of each, he said-" God bles. They rose from their knees, and he directed their names to be inscribed in the great book We witnessed the same scene next morning at ten o'clock, in the same room. It is always full when he is in town, and a Secretary is in waiting to record the names. The general impression is, that it is more sacred and binding to take the Pledge from Father Mathew than from any other. Hence but few take it of others, and always take it again of Father Mathew, whenever he comes within from ten to thirty miles of them. There were persons present when we were in the room who had come thirty miles to take the Pledge. He informed us that he had seen thirty thousand people kneeling before him at once in the open fields. and their repeating the Pledge was like little thunder-like the sound of many waters. The Pledge is understood to be perpetual, and the party may not dissolve the obligation at pleasure. He may disregard and violate it, as some do, but he cannot, as we express it, withdraw. There is evidently a religious obligation attached to the Pledge, founded, to some extent, in the authority and sanctity of the party administering it, as well as in the consent of the party taking it. This impression on the mind of the taker of the Pledge is strengthened by the fact that Father Mathew has no pastoral charge, and is not subject to any Bishop or Ecclesiastical authority in Ireland : but is, by special letter from the Pope, Commissary Apos tolic for Ireland; that he may prosecute his great work without let or hindrance from any Church dignitary. Thus the sanction of the Pope is indirectly obtained to the cause of Temperance in Ireland. I learned these facts at the table of Father Mathew from his brother, who sat next me, and from himself also. Yet, so judicious is this truly benevo lent man, that he will not enter the Diocese of any Catholic Bishop without his consent. I inquired of him why he was thus forbearing, when the pecple clamored for his presence? and his answer was. the success of the cause depended very much upon the countenance of the Clergy, and he was anxious to avoid producing discord in the Church. Upon particular inquiry, I learned from him that the Catholic Clergy were not generally favorable, as it seemed to reflect on the inefficiency of their influence and preaching to suppose a Pledge was farther necessary to bind their flocks to temperate living; and farther, many of them said that Father Mathew knew that administering the Pledge to the people would lead them to condemn the practices of their priests. The Protestant Clergy are not favorable, but they are not opposed. They take no part, but make little opposition, perhaps none, as the movement is almost exclusively confined to Catholics, in the Pledge form. Yet some of the dignitaries of the Established Church have been requested to give their sanction; and Archbishop Whateley, of Dublin, declined, saying the Gospel was sufficient without a Pledge. I presume it might be, if his Honor, and all ethers, would preach it as did the Master and his Apostles, and denounce, in such terms as are suitable, all intemperance and vice. But until they do this, they ought not to impede the good others would do. I had as yet seen Father Mathew only by candlelight, when Mr. Cortlan and myself took a cup of coffee with him, and, as he said, a company of tee-each of us by the arm, and invited all of us to come and take breakfast with him next morning, at nine o'clock. Of course we accepted, and, as it was Friday, we had a meatless breakfast; but every thing else, eggs, butter, honey, toast, bread, hot cakes, tea, coffee, chocolate, and nobody to interrupt our conversation. It was here I learned much of what I have already stated, and now I had an opportunity of measuring this remarkable man. He is little above the ordinary size, well built, square and firm; aquiline nose, fresh color, and a countenance very expressive of benevolence and decision; very agreeable, and even bland, in his manners; if any thing, a little over-kind; and neatly dressed in citizens' dress, of a fine black cloth frock-coat, &c. He would have been distinguished in some other way, if not in the most excellent of all ways, in benefiting the miserable population of his country by suppressing intemperance.

He showed us many little Ballads, Addresses, Songs, &c. which had been published by various persons and Societies, and gave us all a copy of each. He also presented each of us with a silver medal, about the size of a dollar, beautifully exe cuted: on one side a company kneeling around him, taking the Pledge, while he holds out his right hand toward them, and says-" May God bless you, and grant you strength and grace to keep your promise." On the reverse, a cross with rays of light, under which are-"He reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgement to come," (Acts, chap. xxiv., verse 25,) surrounded with a wreath, open a little at the top, where is the cross, and on the left half of the wreath, "The Apostle"-at the junction of the stems, " of," and on the right, "Temperance"-referring to Father Mathew himself. I prize it highly, and shall bequeath it as a legacy to my children.

There are inferior medals struck, which are sold for a shilling each, and these produce money enough to pay all his expenses, and probably to defray the expense of building a very magnificent marble Church, now in course of erection in Cork. He took us to see it; he calls it his Church. I have said the Protestant Clergy do not generally take any part in his Temperance movements. But there are exceptions. He showed us a letter from a young Scotch Clergyman who had kneeled to him and taken the Pledge when he was in Glasgow, some weeks since, where he had adminisered it to thirty thousand in two days. From what we saw when we were there since, thirty thousand more ought to take it. But to the Clergyman's letter; it was beautiful, and truly

Just before we parted he said-"I should like o administer the Pledge to you all." But our American feelings of voluntary and personal obliation, unaided by others, had the mastery, and ve made no reply. Yet I am satisfied the Pledge, n the form of religious obligation and priestly sanction, is necessary to Ireland, perhaps to Cathoics every where.

No man, who does not choose to be blind, can ass through Ireland without seeing the good flects of Temperance among the great mass of the people. I saw only a few persons drunk, or even disguised. The falling off in the excise duty shows a reduction in the consumption of whisky rom eleven to six millions of gallons last year; a ircumstance noticed by the Lord Chancellor of England, while he said the loss of revenue was a matter of moral congratulation. So said the celerated Maria Edgeworth, whose property in Edgeworthtown had ceased to yield its accustomed ents, owing to the progress of Temperance; for nany of the houses had been rested for groghops. I have this from Father Mathew himself. The Gentry of Ireland are not opposed, though they do not assist; they see its benefits to the poor people, hence they are glad of it. But they themclves still hold on to their whisky punch and sherry wine. It is something not to oppose. But the nost violent opposition comes from the distillers, who often send the neighboring Priests a cask or so, and who generally have all the grog-houses under their control, by paying the rent, and putting a tenant in to sell their fire-waters. Mr. Mathew mentioned a single distilling establishment in Cork which paid £6,000 per annum, or nearly $30,000, rents for the thousands of wretched grog-shops through the country where their liquors were reailed. But the cause is onward, and it is hoped will triumph. No one, I believe, attaches any sinister metive to Father Mathew. But Mr. O'Connell ought to take the Pledge himself, and keep it; but it would be fiendish in him to subsidize this movement to political purposes.

STOVES.—HOWE'S Patent Stove, for heating Pariors, Halls, &c., and there probably is not a Stove for sale in this city that contains (in so small a compass) all the advantages this Stove does, for neatness of appearance, economy in fuel, and for emitting a soft and pleasant heat, it is not surpassed by any, and equalled by very few, if any; and while I am about it I should like to call lew, if any; and while I am about it I should like to call the attention of the public to those Stoves for sale in this market that are only got up to look at, and not for service and utility; there is considerable croaking about hollow bases or hearths, to warm or dry the feet upon. I would merely ask the question, would a hearth or base made of sheet iron stand much putting feet upon it for that purpose?
I think not, therefore I would cantion the public to buy such Stoves only as have been well tested and tried. This Stove has a cast iron hearth and two doors in from, one for putting in coal and the other to show the fire, thereby giving a very cheerful appearance, and at the same time brines. putting in coal and the other to show the fire, thereby giving a very cheerful appearance, and at the same time brings an open fire convenient for warming or drying the feet. DARR'S LIFE PILLS .- The immense increase of the sale of these Pills for the short time they have been introduced into this country, is truly astonishing, and a convincing proof of the conquering power of this fine herbal medicine in remedying disease. At this season of the year, when the system is relaxed by the heat of son of the year, when the system is relaxed by the heat of summer, a course of this invaluable medicine will clear off the sour and bad humors which heat invar ably generates. The liver, which generally gets sluggish, will be put into healthy action, and thus be able to perform the functions allotted to it, the body altogether will be reinvigorated, and prepared to undergo whatever change the wister may bring on. In billous complaints, heavy colds and inflammations, they afford a speedy relief, and to the female constitutions they are reincluded. tons, they afford a speedy relief, and to the female consti-tutions they are principally applicable, as many who have tried then can certify. In fact, every one who has used Part's Life Pills seems to be instilled with new life, for their fine, tonic properties invariably restore the stomach to a healthy longing for food, sound sleep, and all the concomi-tants attendant on good health. The extent to which they are used in Europe, among all classes of society, is beyond conception, for more than 50,000 boxes are there sold week-ly, showing that all who use them appreciate their worth. They are sold exclusively by the following agents, viz:— Rushton & Aspinwall, druggists and chemists, 86 William street, 116 Broadway and 19 Astor House. SEBRING'S RESTORATIVE Cor-dial, No. 476 Broadway, N. Y .- This Cordial having obtained a just celebrity on account of the many cutes in has performed, in cases to which it is adapted, the has performed, it cases to which it is adapted, the public is respectfully informed that it relieves Dyspepsia and other disorders of the stomach. It is peculiarly adapted to remove those complaints, not by constantly ptysicing, but by strengthening the system. No greater mistake can be made than to suppose that Dyspepsia, or anyother disease arising from debility, can be cured by a frequent forced action on the bowels, by purgative medicines. When this complaint exists, the system is already too weak, and every additional dose, tends to make it more so. The Configure on the condose tends to make it more so. The Cordial, on the contrary, acting as a tonic, strengthens the digestive organs and assists them to perform their functions as nature de signed. Hence it is found to be efficacious also in those diseases peculiar to females, which arise more frequently from weakness than from any other cause. The Cordial likewise is a certain cure for the Nervous Headache, and affords relief in almost all affections of the nervous system. It is an excellent preventive of costiveness and low spirits. The aged and infirm of both sexes, and persons of sedentary habits, prone to costiveness, have experienced great benefit from it. It speedily promotes strength in all cases of gen-eral debility, restores a good and fiealthy appetite, gives tone and vigor to the whole system, and is highly beneficial as a tonic in convalesence from levers and other acute dis orders. In proof of its virtues in the above complaints, the public is referred to the recommendations of eminent physicians, as well as those of respectable gentlemen who have derived benefit from the use of it, some of which are pub-derived benefit from the use of it, some of which are published in the circular accompanying each bottle.

The Restorative Cordial is prepared and sold by the proprietor at 476 Broadway, N. Y., and by respectable druggists throughout the country. Price $1 per bottle, and $9 per dozen Orders accompanied by the cash punctually executed, and forwarded according to directions.

Sold also by the Mestrs. Rushton & Aspinwall 88 William street, 110 Broadway and 10 Astor House.

READ THIS .- Having been afflicted for the last 10 or 12 years with a complication of dis eases which confined me to my bouse and bed a great por-tion of the time, my stomach extremely weak and sore, vio-lent pans in my side, my strength exhausted, and, in fact reduced to such a degree that life seemed to be nearly exreduced to such a degree that hie seemed to be nearly ex-tinct, I was invited by Dr. Starkweather, and by his advice commenced the use of his medicines—but was so weak and debilitated that I could take but half the usual dose of the Hepatic Eixir. I had taken so much medicine previously Hepatic Eixir. I had taken so much medicine previously that I had no faith or confidence in any thing that bore the name of medicine. However, I continued the use of the Hepatic Eixir, in half doses, for one week, when I began to teel its beneficial effects; I was then directed to increase the dose, which I found I could easily bear, and to the utter astonishment of myself and friends, I was soon able to leave my bed, and in they weeks was able to ride S0 miles in one my bed, and in a few weeks was able to ride 50 miles in or my bed, and in a few weeks was able to ride 50 miles in one day, which I could not have done before at any time in ten years past. I can now do my work about house, and feel perfectly well. I feel truly grateful to the Doctor, for his prescriptions, and sincerely believe the use of his Elixir has reserved me to health, and I can do no less than to earnestly entreat all who are suffering with bilions diseases to go and do likewise, and they may rest assured that they will derive as much benefit from it as I have done. I believe Dr Starkweather's Hepatic Elixer to be a truly valuable medicine. LUCRETIA D. LELAND. Grafton, Mass. For sale by CHAS. DYER, Jr. 42 Westminster st. R. I.
